A Teachers Guide for a KS1 pick and mix day of self-led and guided activities along Cromford Canal

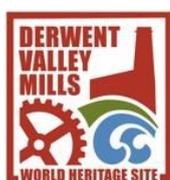

A WOW day to remember which could include a ride on a train or a bus, a 'cruise' on a canal boat, a wonderful walk through nature and a chance to explore High Peak Junction, one of the oldest remaining railway workshops in the world.

The northern part of the Cromford Canal and the High Peak Junction sit with the Derwent Valley Mills World Heritage Site near Cromford Mills and it has so much to offer you and your class.

This guide aims to give you a sample 'timetable' for a day's visit with suggested activities either self-led or with a third party provider. Where the activities are self-led we have given basic information to help with planning in addition to the downloadable Activity Guides and resources needed to complete them, where the activity is provided by a third party, we have included a brief description of the activity along with contact details and prices, where applicable.

About the sites

Birdswood Historic Canal Boat is 72ft long narrow boat that is fully insured for 40 passengers and is ideal for carrying a full class of pupils and their accompanying adults.

High Peak Junction Workshops were built in 1825 to serve the Cromford and High Peak Railway, the buildings were last used in 1967. They have been preserved in their original state and have lots to offer the inquisitive visitor, including a working forge.

Cromford Canal was built in 1794 and was once a buzzing transport hub of Derbyshire, its construction displayed many feats of engineering and hydraulics. These days it's more known for its picturesque walks along the towpath where there is a wide range of wildlife, including water voles, ducks and dragonflies.

Leawood Pumphouse was built in 1849 to top up the canal with water from the River Derwent following a water shortage in 1844. The restored steam engine can lift 4 tons of water each minute up to a height of 30 metres. There are 'in steam' days open to the public throughout the year.
